

Computing, Information Systems & Development Informatics Journal

Ethical Guidelines & Copyright Information

Editorial & Peer Review Process

All papers submitted to the Computing, Information Systems & Development Informatics Journal will undergo a peer review process. An initial prima facie editorial review is carried out on receipt of a manuscript to ascertain its conformity in scope, depth and content to the quality of the Computing, Information Systems & Development Informatics Journal. Manuscripts that do not meet the minimum requirements for consideration in the Computing, Information Systems & Development Informatics Journal are returned to the authors. Manuscripts that are acceptable at this stage are sent for peer review. The recommendation of the peer review process determines the acceptability of manuscript. Please Note that even after a positive peer review process, a manuscript can be rejected if during post review processing it is found to violate copyrights.

Copyright Information

Published works must be original and all works cited or used in the body of the write-up acknowledged. Where applicable, the use of human elements or live elements for research must be acknowledged and proper permission/approval sought on same. The Computing, Information Systems & Development Informatics Journal will not be liable for any infringement on individuals, groups, organizations or collective rights violated by any author whose article appear in the Computing, Information Systems & Development Informatics Journal. Plagiarism should be avoided in all its forms. All works quoted, cited and consulted should be properly referenced and sources of images, diagrams, tables, charts, data etc acknowledged. In addition, self-plagiarism is not allowed. Simultaneous submission of the same article, manuscript or paper to different journals is also not acceptable. It is the responsibility of the lead author to ensure that all authors listed on a manuscript contributed to the development of the manuscript as well as participate in the research work. Where applicable, students and other individuals who also contributed to the development of the research and manuscript must be acknowledged.

Sanctions

All forms of unethical practices will not be tolerated by the Computing, Information Systems & Development Informatics Journal. Such activities will be met by appropriate sanctions as determined from time to time by the Editorial/Editorial Advisory Board of the Computing, Information Systems & Development Informatics Journal. Sanctions include but are not limited to the following:

1. Rejection of submitted manuscript
2. Suspension of such authors from submitting new manuscript to the Journal for a minimum of 12 months
3. In cases of repeated infringements, a formal written documentation of same may be sent to the authors employer
4. A disclaimer can also be initiated for such authors.